

SAN DIEGO
ZOO

SKY ART EVENT for

PLANT CONSERVATION DAY

PLANT
conservation
DAY

Come join the fun! Be a part of a public art project supporting plant conservation! Participants will receive a purple or orange shirt and stand in a formation to create the Orcutt's woody aster (Xylorhiza orcuttii), a rare daisy that is native to the Anza-Borrego Desert. A picture will then be taken of the "flowers" from the sky.

This event is hosted by the San Diego Zoo in conjunction with the Association of Zoological Horticulture (AZH) and Plant Conservation Day (May 18th) to promote awareness and funding for plant conservation projects around the world.

Event details:

Date: Saturday, June 5th, 2010

Time: 8:00am

Location: Meet at the San Diego Zoo's overflow parking lot (across from the War Memorial Bldg.) Park in the Northwest corner of the Zoo's parking lot

Cost: $20 for t-shirt and participation in the event

Guests who wear the custom designed purple or orange t-shirt will receive 20% off their one day Zoo admission pass.

Contact Gail Case, 619-231-1515 ext 4298

gcase@sandiegozoo.org or Christy Powell ext 4160

cpowell@sandiegozoo.org to register.

